Salvos fired in beachfront war

BY RICHARD MEEK

Perhaps it was only fitting that during the week leading up to Memorial Day, new salvos were fired in a beachfront war in Waveland.

The latest volley came from a group of citizens calling themselves "Citizens for Preservation." The group is opposing a proposed parking lot and comfort station to be constructed between Coleman Avenue and Terrace Lane by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. The citizens presented Waveland Mayor John Mason with two alternate proposals.

Mason's retort included a diplomatic, but definitive rejection of both proposals. Now, the citizens promise, the battleground will shift to the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors and then the courts.

"We're finished with the City of Waveland," Russell Voochries said. "(Mason) closed the door."

"Our next step is the (supervisors) and plead our case with them."

The two alternatives differ greatly from the county proposal, which calls for a 69-space parking lot and comfort station on the beach. The first alternative calls for the construction of a 32-space parking lot on the north side of Beach Boulevard at Coleman Avenue. Additionally, a three-way blinking light would be installed at that intersection.

Under the plan, the county would be forced to buy additional property, whereas the beachfront is under its domain.

According to the proposal, the lot "would not destroy the beauty of the Waveland beaches" and "would not affect the value of properties along the beach."

The second recommendation calls for construction of eight "four-to-five-car" parking bays to be located on the south side of Beach Boulevard, a la Highway 90 in Harrison County. The proposed bays would be located at Bienville Drive, Lakewood Road, Nicholson Avenue, Mollere Drive, Terrace Street, St. Joseph Street, between Favre Street and Vacation Lane, Oak

Memorial Day celebrated

Area residents celebrated Memorial Day in a number of different ways. On Sunday, nearly 500 people gathered at the Pass Christian harbor for the annual blessing of the fleet (above left). Rev. Bill Buice of Trinity Church in Pass Christian (left) and Father Ron Herzog of St. Paul Catholic Church, also in Pass Christian blessed the boats as they passed through the harbor. All types of boats were present, from large shrimpers to small pleasure crafts. On Monday, nearly 70 residents gathered for a Memorial Day service at the American Legion Post 77 home in Waveland. Guest speaker was Lt. Col. Gary Lee of the United States Air Force (above right). Col. Lee said that because America has traditionally supported a strong military, "the Berlin Wall has crumbled, peace has broken out in Europe and there has been a fall of the Communist Bloc nations." He said the "biggest advocates for peace is the military. We have the most to lose, our lives." A memorial prayer was offered by Unit 77 Chaplain Mary Caillier. A wreath was placed at the legion memorial by Unit 77 President Isabel Crais and Post 77 Commander Richard Bessey. (Echo staff photos by Richard Meek)

Giveans family makes second appeal for help

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Andrew Joseph Giveans III was five months old when he made headlines reading Fighting for life in The Sea Coast Echo's issue of January 30, 1992.

Today, things are brighter for Andrew, as he can walk, is cheerful, happy, and able to eat and play with his 18-month-old sister, his mother reports.

His mother on Saturday said, "Andrew has spent over half of his life in a hospital. Yet, 1994 was a good year for him, as he only went to the hospital one time and hasn't been there once this year."

Andrew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. (Donelle) Giveans Jr., of Bay St. Louis.

Not going to a hospital this year will change for Andrew, as he now has to have extensive dental work.

"All of his teeth have to be either capped or filled," his mother said.

The family has dental insurance, but will only pay $1,500, and that is nowhere near enough for his dental problems, Mrs. Giveans said.

An Andrew Giveans III Fund has once again been established at the Hancock Bank, as the family is seeking community support in helping the young lad with necessary medical needs.

Andrew was born with multiple congenital anomalies. He had macrencephaly, an enlargement of the brain; hydrocephaly, fluid on the brain; ventricular septal defect, a hole in his heart; supraventricular tachycardia, a malfunction of the ventricular muscle which pumps the heart; pectus excavatum, severely sunken chest cavity; and multiple respiratory defects.

He is now growing and is only about a head shorter than other four-year-olds.

For the first 30 months, Andrew could not receive nourishment by mouth, because he would aspirate as everything went directly into his lungs; even his own saliva became a threat.

Mrs. Giveans is a 1986 Bay High School graduate and native of Bay St. Louis. Mr. Giveans works in New Orleans for U.S. Gypsum. In addition to a younger sister to Andrew, the Giveans' also have an eight-year-old daughter.

Availability of local services has been a problem for the Giveans family. Locally there has been no facility to address the many medical needs of Andrew.

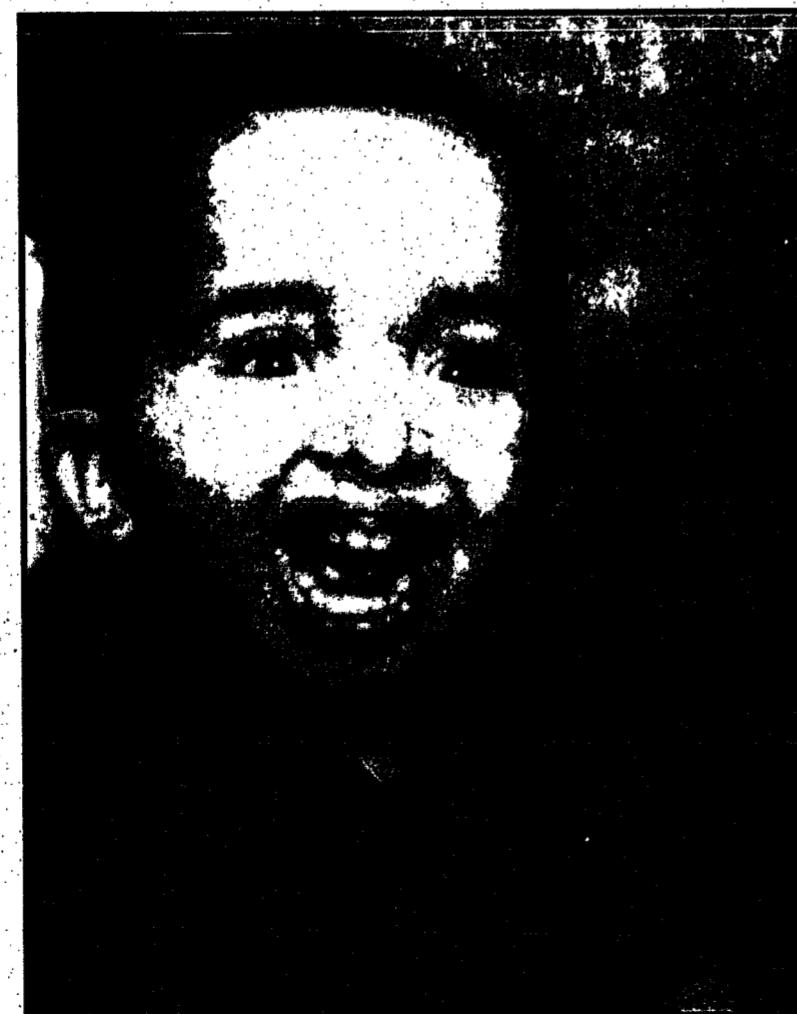

The only hospital in Mississippi which can meet Andrew's needs is in Jackson, three hours from the Coast, Mrs. Giveans said.

The dental work is scheduled at Children's Hospital in New Orleans, which is only one hour away, the mother said.

"A problem we face is the fact that Mississippi Medicaid does not recognize the Children's Hospital in New Orleans," Mrs. Giveans said.

"Three years ago when we made an appeal, the people and St. Vincent de Paul Society

The Hancock County School District will have to pay $13,000 in fines to the State Treasurer for an overclaim in the school food lunch program. The errors occurred during August and September at Hancock High School.

According to Rhea Scafidi, the Food Service Supervisor, the oversight was a result of "trying to feed too many students in too short of time."

"We dropped the ball," Scafidi said. "Due to increased enrollment and scheduling problems, students were being served without any identification."

Apparently, in an effort to get all of the 900 students served in two hours, food service personnel were only checking every seventh student. The other students were just asked their status, whether it be a free lunch, reduced lunch, or paid lunch, Scafidi said.

Once state officials became aware of the errors, they re-enacted the two months in question for auditing purposes.

The result was a $13,000 penalty.

Scafidi assured the school board members corrective action had been taken by establishing an additional lunch period and installing a unique numbering system for the students.

In other board action Tuesday night, members got their first look at the proposed school budget for the 1995-96 school year. The proposed budget includes an additional $276,500 in expenditures over the previous year.

Some of the increased expenses include a proposed came forth and offered a hand, and I am hoping they will respond once again. They just do not know how grateful our family is for all of their support. Mrs. Giveans emphasized.

As an infant Andrew was under the care of eight specialists as he lay in his crib for many months with tubes and monitors extorting from his body.

On Saturday, Mrs. Giveans and her oldest daughter were conducting a bake sale benefit in front of Wal-Mart to help raise some funds for Andrew's additional medical bills.

About six of the Giveans friends prepared cakes, cookies, candies, etc. for the bake sale.

Over his lifetime, Andrew has already undergone 11 surgeries and still has more to go, his mother said.

Mrs. Giveans also reports she has appealed to the March of Dimes and Easter Seals for support and is awaiting their response.

The mother indicated one of the goals now is to have Andrew ready to attend school when he reaches the age.

On Saturday, as one person visited the bake sale table which carried a photo display of Andrew, a lady questioned Mrs. Giveans about her son's problems.

When Mrs. Giveans told the lady her concerns about having Andrew's features corrected, the lady replied, "You know children can be cruel."

Mrs. Giveans repeated how she will always be grateful for the many concerned people of this community and expressed great appreciation to all who have helped over the lifetime of her son.

Tempers rise in Waveland

BY RICHARD MEEK

Tempers flared in a Waveland Board of Aldermen workshop Wednesday during a discussion over a proposed change in the way the board conducts business.

Alderman Jay Fleuriet proposed a resolution mandating any item that requires a vote during a board meeting be placed on the pre-printed meeting agenda. Currently, agenda items and items brought up during Mayor John Mason's Mayor's Report may be brought to a vote.

Fleuriet's proposal mirrors one that is recommended in a national municipalities handbook.

Fleuriet's action came in response to a controversial May 17 vote endorsing a county proposal to build a parking lot and comfort station on the beachfront. Originally, the beachfront proposal was not an agenda item.

However, Mason raised the issue during his report. Aldermen Al Kingston followed with a motion to endorse the county proposal, which was seconded by Tommy Longo. The motion passed by a 3-1 margin, with Fleuriet the lone dissent.

However, Fleuriet has said privately he is in favor of the proposal, although he was opposed to the way the endorsement resolution was passed and the fashion in which the parking lot will be constructed.

Fleuriet said during the workshop his proposed meeting revision is "in the spirit of openness and citizen involvement."

City attorney Ronnie

Artigues said the board currently operates under the property guidelines of Mississippi statutes governing municipalities.

Kingston said Fleuriet's proposal would "greatly limit us to be a legislative body."

Other aldermen echoed his sentiments, saying the mayor's report is an avenue to pass emergency measures.

"We are already operating by the intent of the law," Mason said. "The proposal is tying our hands in case of an emergency."

Fleuriet persisted in his argument, but it was soon obvious he was the sole proponent. He said he is concerned the mayor could push through a controversial issue without the public, or even the board, being notified ahead of time.

An enraged Mason told Fleuriet that nothing in the mayor's short administration "has ever been done without you (Fleuriet) being notified."

"You are acting on a personal agenda. You know that."

Hancock Special Ed

The Hancock County School District is soliciting input from parents of children with disabilities within the school district for the 1995-96 Special Education budget.

There will be a meeting Friday, June 2 at 10 a.m. at the Hancock County Special Education office at 6069 Cuevas-Town Road, Pass Christian.

All interested parents of special needs children are invited to participate. For information call 255-6626.

Class ranking controversy settled at Bay High School

BY RICHARD MEEK

A long-standing controversy regarding class rankings has finally been settled at Bay High School. But for the time being, only the incoming freshman class will be affected.

The Bay-Waveland School Board hammered out an agreement on determining class rankings during a special meeting Tuesday night. The board agreed to change to rankings based on quality points. Additionally, courses will be ranked on only two levels.

Level I will be required courses and carry no quality points. Level II will consist of advanced and college prep courses and be weighted equally.

"This system will put everyone on the same level," board president Linda Penrose said. "It will award the same number of points for all advanced classes."

That is in sharp contrast to the numerical system currently in use. Class rankings are based on numerical grades, with extra weight added for advanced courses. But the weight for honors courses was not evenly assigned.

For example, advanced physics is weighted more heavily than advanced math. Additionally, some students were penalized when certain courses were not offered.

In the recently concluded school year, French III and French IV were offered, but not Spanish III and Spanish IV.

Consequently, those students who had intended on taking the advanced Spanish courses were forced to scramble to take other honors courses, some of which did not carry as much weight under the numerical system.

There had been previous discussion of changing over the entire system immediately, but board members agreed that would not be in the best interests of students already under the numerical system. A committee studying the two systems recommended dropping

Baxter trial to begin June 26

BY RICHARD MEEK

U.S. District Court Judge Sarah Vance set June 26 at 9 a.m. as the trial date for former Jubilee Casino chief George Baxter.

Baxter will be tried on money laundering charges. The attorneys for both sides gathered in Vance's chambers on Tuesday for a pre-trial hearing.

Baxter's attorney Don Rafferty refused comment after the hearing. Baxter was also not allowed to listen in on the hearing. Rather, he waited alone outside of Vance's courtroom.

Baxter has been charged with laundering $200,000 through a Jubilee Casino bank account. Defense counsel claims the former jubilee chief was entrapped.

Baxter remains free on $50,000 bond. He returned from Costa Rica, where he had been living, last week, and said he plans to stay in the area until after the trial.

He has been involved in setting up new casinos in Costa Rica.

Waveland beach vote refreshing

In an era when politicians are increasingly playing for evening sound-bites, it was encouraging to see the Waveland Board of Aldermen strike a definitive pose in the face of adversity.

Under the glare of television spotlights, the aldermen, buoyed by the insistence of Mayor John Mason, voted 3-1 to endorse a Hancock County proposal for construction of a parking lot and comfort station on the beachfront between Coleman Avenue and Terrace Lane.

Good for them.

For once, a political body voted in the best interest of an entire community, not just a vocal minority. To be sure, the beachfront development will be an asset to the entire city, maybe not this year, but certainly in years to come. The development brings with it the potential of increased tourism, which translates into the sweet jingle of a busy cash register for Waveland businesses. Increased trade means added tax dollars for city coffers badly in need of replenishment.

Opponents will advance the argument that some Waveland residents bought homes to enjoy the serenity of the area. They will also postulate that the proposed project will destroy the beauty of the area.

Unfortunately, what's good for the whole occasionally adversely affects a few. But for an individual to oppose a $300,000 development that comes at no cost to the city, and will likely increase tourism and generate revenue, is selfish and self-serving. It is also a blatant veto of any growth in the community.

And proposed growth strikes at the heart of the problem.

For quite some time Waveland has been ruled by a well-heeled minority, some of whom may spend less than 100 days a year on the Coast. It is long overdue that the majority take back the city and have its voice heard. No longer can the city be governed by a select few who consider Waveland its private weekend backyard.

Bay-Waveland is a once-docile area awakening to a new dawning of opportunities. The gaming industry was the first wake-up call. The beach renourishment program last spring was the second.

Urban flight is the final alarm.

The Waveland aldermen answered that call with a courageous vote on an emotional issue. Bay St. Louis must also do the same.

Opponents to its beachfront project that is similar to Waveland's have also recently surfaced. Again, it is the tired old song of some residents taking a "no-growth" stance.

Growth is always painful, but residents must accept the reality that this area is in a period of ballooning expansion. With its beaches, recreational activities, proximity to urban centers, the outstanding quality of life and all of the other amenities in the area, Bay-Waveland is no longer the sleepy corner of the Gulf Coast.

Understandably, each step forward will be met with resistance. To be sure, retirees enjoy the solitude of a summer morning in Waveland, the serenity of an evening sunset in Bay St. Louis and the slow pace of life in between.

But it is misguided thinking to assume a parking lot and comfort station will destroy the beaches, bring in undesirable elements, or alter the quality of life. Quite the contrary.

In the long run, added tourism is added tax dollars, and for that every citizen benefits through better roads, police protection and education. It is not difficult to understand the concerns of "weekenders," but they must consider that the majority of Bay-Waveland citizens live here full-time.

In the end, both cities will be for the better because of the county proposals. They are receiving added tourist attractions without spending a dime.

One Waveland alderman privately admitted his controversial stand for the project may cost him votes in the next election, maybe even his seat. But he said he did "what was best for the future of Waveland."

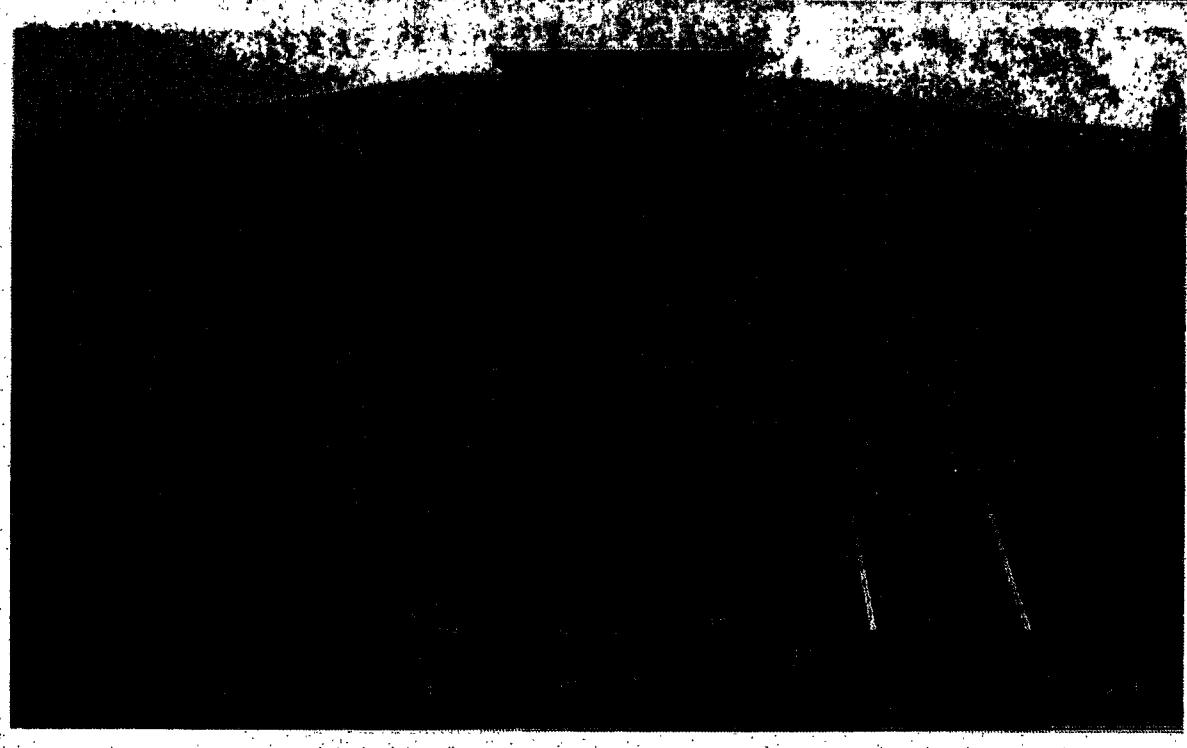

Shouldn't that be the top priority for all concerned?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Grateful for youths

To the Editor,

The people of Jourdan River Shores are getting to basic cleaning up their storm flooded homes.

I am sure they were grateful for the volunteers of the Youth Challenge Program from Camp Shelby Saturday, May 27, led by Sgt. Smith.

The 41 boys are part of a program sponsored by the National Guard at Camp Shelby.

They sign up for a six-month stay, then are screened to enter into a military environment with education, self-esteem, discipline and work skills. They are paid a small stipend each week for special needs.

They get leadership from a very special group of wonderful dedicated people.

Dancing with the Dinosaurs

Dear Editor,

As I sat in my child's award ceremony last night, something hit me like a ton of bricks about why our children have been labeled "Generation X."

It's been said that they just have no distinguished characteristics such as the hippies of the 60s or theuppies of the 80s.

Seems they have no real purpose or convictions and are very mistrusting and unbelieveing. They also have the highest violence and suicide rates, and those rates just keep on climbing.

I wondered why a generation who has had more given to them than any other before them can be in such a predicament. And something the school principal said hit me like a ton of bricks.

He said many students were not at the awards ceremony because there were ball games that night, and coaches think the great majority of these young boys and girls will graduate July 1. They can continue their education or go to work and have a better look at the future.

This is a wonderful program and will help a lot of youths who maybe would have never finished school.

I am writing this because I know the changes it has done in my grandson's life. He will graduate July 1 with a job and a better look at his future.

I have witnessed some of the program by going there to pick him up for his weekend passes. He is coming home with a job, a mentor, which is a wonderful leader in our community.

I am very proud of him.

their ball games are just as important as awards ceremonies.

There was only one school board member present at this presentation, and probably over one-half of the students were not in attendance. I guess the saddest event was around one-half of the perfect attendance recipients were absent last night.

That's when I knew, just like the words of these two contemporary Christian songs, "We are Living Life Upside Down" as parents and leaders, and I seemed to be "Dancing with the Dinosaurs."

Let me explain, "living life upside down" parents, leaders, teachers and coaches — why is more emphasis put on a ball game when only less than one percent will ever be Michael Jordans or even play any kind of professional sports, than on a ceremony commending the what it will really take to survive and succeed in this world.

My prayer is that in spite of all the wrong messages our children get every day — they will rise above the label of "Generation X" and become the "Chosen Generation."

Because despite negative messages, bad environments, poverty and all the other "bad" things, you as Generation X can make "right" choices and become that "Chosen Generation," more mighty, successful and convicted than any other generation before you. Rise Up — The Dinosaurs Believe in You!

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is hard to realize the Hancock County Food Pantry has been in business for a total of nine years.

The success of the operation can be attributed to the dedication of a large number of volunteers from area churches.

It just goes to show you that an all volunteer organization can work, does work, and provides a much-needed service to our community.

There are some 60 volunteers who give their time in order for the organization to continue to operate.

Then there are also the volunteer givers, those who give cash, groceries, etc.

This includes businesses, individuals and organizations, who are all concerned about those who are in need.

Local bakeries donate bakery products, and they are kept in donated freezers.

Food collections are also made at local churches on a regular basis.

One of the greatest responses I have ever seen in a Food Pantry Food Drive was the one several weeks ago by the Letter Carriers.

They collected tons of food from patrons through the county.

It was interesting in seeing how little was collected from other communities across the Coast compared to our local post office.

All of the letter carriers and postal employees need to be congratulated on a job well done in addition to a big thank you to those who donated food items.

Just think, over the nine years of service, the Food Pantry has served 8,377 families, which total approximately 25,073 people.

The Hancock County Food Pantry is located in the old Hancock County Jail and also receives tremendous support from the Civil Defense.

Hats off to all of those who help the Hancock County Food Pantry.

Going back to when I was a youngster, June 1 marked the beginning of summer, and it ended on Labor Day.

I think the scheduling of school had a lot to do with what we thought was summer.

This is the beginning of the season when we have a lot more visitors to our area, and this is very good for our businesses.

With school out, it means we will have more youngsters walking and bike riding on our roadways.

Motorists need to use extreme caution while traveling streets.

Many times the youngsters are thinking about baseball, going to the beach, fishing and many other fun things; they too need to observe all traffic rules.

Summer is a fun time, but one must also make sure it is a safe time.

Boulevard and between Waveland Avenue and Market Street.

A comfort station would be constructed near the pier at Terrace Avenue. The proposal says the bays "would distribute the visiting public and their vehicles equitably" along the beach and "would not create a congested area on the beach where noise and litter would be excessive."

Additionally, the bays "would not provide a single gathering place for undesirable activities."

A letter dated May 22 and signed by John Hansbrough of the Citizens for Preservation accompanied the two proposals. The letter expressed the citizens' concerns about the county proposal and petitioned Mason to possibly develop a "third alternative workable plan."

Mason responded by saying he has "the best interests of all the citizens of Waveland at heart, equally."

He said the beachfront project is the "culmination of years of planning by the Sand Beach Committee and the Waveland Pier. The finances are now available, and if the project does not go forward at this time, we are in serious danger of losing the funding."

"The City of Waveland cannot afford to lose this type of project as we plan for the future growth and betterment of our community."

Mason added that the project "will also enhance the revival of Coleman Avenue. Both local residents and tourists will be able to take advantage of our beaches and fishing pier, and we intend to advertise these attractions in travel magazines and area newspapers."

Mason closed by citing the advantages of new tax dollars the project is estimated to generate.

The mayor's claims angered Voochries, who admitted he wants no development along the beach.

"I don't want anything on the sand," he said. "The people who live on the beach are here because of our pristine beaches. We are not looking to develop it."

He acknowledged that people who "live on the other side of town" approve of the Voochries said the project is "a lot of extra tax dollars for the betterment of businesses of Waveland, not for the betterment of the citizenry."

Voochries repeated what has become almost a battlecry for the opposing citizens, and that is any business development should be on Highway 90, not in the beach area. City officials admit privately they are hoping for a resurgence of businesses on Coleman Avenue.

The supervisors will next meet on June 5, when it is expected they will vote to advertise for bids in the Waveland project. The project carries an estimated price tag of $300,000. Waveland is putting up no money.

Voochries said his group will argue to the supervisors that the money could be spent elsewhere, especially in northern Hancock County, which suffered severe flood damage during the heavy May rains.

"Shouldn't the tax dollars be spent in improving drainage and culverts in other parts of our county?" Voochries said.

The supervisors are also expected to open bids on a similar project in Bay St. Louis. They had originally intended to approve advertising for both projects at the May meeting, but opposition from Waveland residents persuaded board members to postpone the Waveland construction until a suitable solution could be negotiated.

However, Waveland city officials were notified recently they had until June 5 to endorse the project, or risk losing the funding. At the Board of Aldermen meeting on May 17, the county proposal received a 3-1 endorsement from the aldermen, despite vehement opposition from beachfront property owners, some of whom are part-time residents.

The beachfront vote was not on the meeting agenda, but rather arose during Mason's Mayor's Report, a maneuver that incensed the opposition. Alderman Jay Fleuriel, whose ward the proposed project will be located in, had scheduled a public meeting on the parking lot on May 22. The meeting went on as scheduled, although the resolution had already passed.

"We will pursue alternate legal action," Voochries said. "It is the beginning of an ocean swell that will come on shore."

Three arrested

BY RICHARD MEEK

A 17-year-old Waveland resident and two 14-year-old juveniles were arrested in connection with the burglary of a Bay St. Louis grocery store.

Brandon Thomas Monroe, 17, of 1613 Breland St., and the two juveniles were charged with the alleged burglary of the Corner Market grocery store on May 22, according to investigating officer Shane Corr of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The three are charged with allegedly stealing 7 cartons of cigarettes valued at over $100.

Even though Monroe is a juvenile, he will be tried as an adult since the charge is a felony.

Monroe is free on a property bond. He has a court date of June 21.

The two juveniles were released in the custody of their parents.

Assisting in the arrests were officer Chris Bailey and detectives Kurt Raymond and Tom Burleson, all of the Bay Police.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

THEY'VE DONE IT AGAIN

The Diamondhead Players treated their audience to another great weekend of entertainment when they presented "Nite Court," a two-act musical comedy at the country club.

Congratulations to Rene Dufour, writer and director; Santa Loiacano, assistant musical director; Brierly Acker, lighting director, and all the wonderful cast, and we won't forget the great food by Brenda and crew.

REMINDER

Friday, June 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the community center, the "Nite Court" cast members, workers and board of directors of the Diamondhead Players are having a party. The board of directors' annual meeting for this group will be at 6:30 p.m. at the center before the cast party. A new board and officers will be elected, so have your nominations ready.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There has been a recent notice of a planned retirement development in Diamondhead. The POA has and is continuing to follow this matter and will act to maintain the planned and established scheme of development in Diamondhead and to insure that the design and use of any construction is in harmony with that of the community.

PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE

"People Helping People" is the motto of the Salvation Army, who sponsored the recent Nike Mississippi Gulf Coast Golf Classic. To Jim and Dot Van Norman, Frank Marshall and the large number of Diamondhead folks who volunteered and helped in all sorts of ways to make this tournament a great success, a big round of applause.

LET'S DANCE

Friday, June 2 is the country club dance from 7-11 p.m.; hors d'oeuvres, 6:30-9 p.m., cash bar 6:30-11 p.m., $5 per person. Call Brenda with your reservations.

AN INVITATION . . .

From the folks at our Diamondhead Yacht Club to come and enjoy the beautiful view from "The Deck" during the summer with a special deck menu.

There's Sunday Brunch buffet from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and a Monday night special of spaghetti and meat sauce or lasagna. Other hours are Monday-Saturday, 5-10 p.m., Sunday dinner 5-10 p.m. They're closed on Tuesdays.

JULY 4 CELEBRATION

The Diamondhead Youth Organization will again be sponsoring the July 4 parade and activities. They will be contacting all organizations to participate in some way.

For the parade, any individual, family or group can put together an entry. You can walk, ride a golf cart, have a float, whatever. The parade will be followed by food and games on the country club grounds.

The Diamondhead community and guests are encouraged and welcome to join. Please call Betty at 255-1885 for information.

DELEGATES

Carolyn Koerner and Helen Hickman, representing Chapter Q of Diamondhead, were delegates to the 28th annual convention of Mississippi State Chapter PEO meeting held recently in Long Beach.

Founded in 1869 on the campus of Iowa Wesleyan College located in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, PEO is a philanthropic and educational organization bringing opportunities for higher education to women.

Among the state officers elected were Travella Dabler, second vice president, and Betty Reddock, treasurer, both residents of Diamondhead and members of PEO Chapter Q.

CMS researchers bring in grants

Three University of Southern Mississippi researchers at Stennis Space Center have been awarded grants totaling more than $400,000.

The awards include:

—Drs. Steven Lohrenz and Donald Redalje, both associate professors of marine science at USM's Center for Marine Sciences, received a Department of Energy grant for their project, "Assessment of Primary Production and Optical Variability Near Cape Hatteras, N.C."

The project is funded at $370,000 over three years. It is an interdisciplinary study of carbon dioxide cycling in the mid-Atlantic coastal ecosystem that will help foster an understanding of the role of coastal processes on the global carbon cycle and climate changes.

—Dr. Igor Shulman of the Center of Ocean and Atmospheric Modeling at Stennis received $73,084 from the Office of Naval Research for his project, "Development of Coupling Technology with Optimized Open Boundary Conditions."

Waveland resident to represent NASA and Stennis Space Center in Sweden

Waveland resident Joey Kirkpatrick, an engineer at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center (SSC) has been chosen to represent NASA and SSC at the International Space University (ISU) summer session at the Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm, Sweden.

Kirkpatrick, who is lead engineer for the Component Test Facility at SSC, was awarded the 10-week fellowship by NASA Headquarters through a very competitive application process. This fellowship is awarded annually to only one to three of NASA's 21,000 employees around the country.

Kirkpatrick will be one of 125 students from two dozen countries, which also have space programs, to study at a graduate level in a space-related, interdisciplinary setting. Kirkpatrick has been assigned to the Space Engineering Department at ISU and will complete courses in the basic features of space flight, such as orbital mechanics, propulsion, thermal control and spacecraft computer systems.

The aim of the ISU summer program is to provide graduate students and young professionals from around the world with a unique educational experience. Students gain a general understanding of all areas of space exploration, study with the world's finest educators in space development and experience working with real-world design projects in space research and development.

ISU students must meet certain criteria — they must have demonstrated an outstanding ability in their chosen field of academic study, research or professional work; show motivation to take on personal and professional responsibilities in the development and peaceful exploration of space; and show commitment to international understanding and cooperation.

Stennis Space Center is NASA's prime center for testing and flight certifying large rocket propulsion systems for the Space Shuttle and future generations of space vehicles. Because of its important role in engine testing for more than three decades, SSC has been designated NASA's Center for Excellence for large propulsion systems testing.

Mississippi ratifies SREMAC

Governor Kirk Fordice has signed an historic agreement, making Mississippi the second state to ratify the amended Southern Regional Emergency Management Assistance Compact or SREMAC created by the Southern Governors Association.

The Louisiana legislature ratified the original unamended version of the compact last year.

"The amendments to SREMAC make it possible for this to become the first operational national emergency management compact in U.S. History," said Fordice, who is chairman of the Southern Governors Association.

"In the long run that means a wider range of resources would be available to states needing additional assistance in disasters," Fordice said.

Prior to the amendments adopted in January, SREMAC membership was restricted to the 19 member states and territories.

The compact clarifies the inter-state role of National Guard personnel by limiting their use for humanitarian relief purposes only.

"We are pleased Mississippi has taken this step forward with the ratification of SREMAC," said Jim Maher, MEMA director.

"This will vastly simplify our access to additional resources from neighboring states once they ratify the Compact," Maher said.

Leon Shaifer, MEMA director of Plans and Operations, said a number of people put a lot of effort into the project.

"Issues were researched and developed by member states' Attorneys General and Emergency Management Representatives," Shaifer said.

Shaifer will be working on the SREMAC Operations Committee with the staff at the Emergency Management Institute in Emmitsburg, Md.

Shaifer said the goal is to merge SREMAC into the curriculum at the Emergency Management Institute.

The Operations Committee has completed a SREMAC Guidebook and Manual of Use to assist member states in implementing requests and use of supplies, equipment and personnel.

MILITARY MENTIONS

AIRMAN DAHN

Navy Airman Recruit Kristofer K. Dahn, son of Rita M. and John C. Dahn Jr. of Waveland, recently departed for a six-month overseas deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt, the lead ship of the USS Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group.

Dahn is one of more than 6,000 Sailors and Marines aboard the aircraft carrier, which departed Norfolk, Va. in Mid-March along with 10 other ships and submarines. The 11-ship USS Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group is a formidable force equipped with jet fighters and attack aircraft, helicopters and ships and submarines armed with Tomahawk cruise missiles.

Extremely mobile and flexible, the battle group can operate together, moving nearly 700 miles a day, or can be deployed simultaneously to separate geographic regions.

Dahn and his fellow Sailors spent the past year training for a variety of situations they might encounter during the deployment. They will be replacing the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower Battle Group, which has been operating in the Persian Gulf enforcing the no-fly zone over Southern Iraq and most recently supporting United Nations operations off Bosnia-Herzegovina in the Adriatic Sea.

The 1994 graduate of Bay High School joined the Navy in June 1994.

PO2 ACKER

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Dorian Acker, son of Rose and Walter Acker Sr. of Pearlington, recently departed for a six-month overseas deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt, the lead ship of the USS Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group.

Treasure Bay

Tunica closed

Treasure Bay Corp. will make permanent the temporary closing of its Tunica casino, effective May 31. Rising water levels on the Mississippi River forced the casino to temporarily suspend operations as a safety precaution. Treasure Bay notified its approximately 600 employees.

"I am deeply saddened to have had to take this step," said Bernie Burkholder, president and CEO of Treasure Bay Corp. "We've done everything possible to stay open in Tunica County. Our people were working as hard as they could, but we just couldn't overcome the financial hurdles we faced."

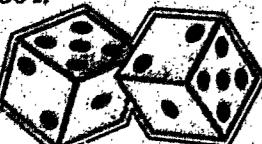

Treasure Bay Corp. is in the process of hiring Paine Webber to find a buyer for the facility. In the meantime, Burkholder says the company will consider opening the channel and floating the boat back onto the Mississippi River.

"We've received permission to do that from the bankruptcy court and appropriate government agencies. Moving onto the river would reduce monthly expenses, and that proximity would make it easier for any potential buyer to move the casino to another location. That may be the most desirable option while we search for a buyer."

Treasure Bay also operates a casino and hotel in Biloxi.

"The Biloxi casino will not be affected by the closing in Tunica," says Burkholder.

Treasure Bay Casino, a 512-foot replica of an 18th century Caribbean pirate ship, is located a Commerce Landing in Tunica County, approximately 20 miles south of Memphis near the intersection of Highways 61 and 304.

Why Should Your Business Advertise In Hancock Today?

- Interesting reading. People like to read about people, and Hancock Today is full of pictures and stories about people. It is generally the best-read issue of the year.
- Good news. People are always complaining about "not enough good news." Hancock Today is generally upbeat and contains the good news people are hungry for.
- It is a good time to "brag." Hancock Today is the best time for businesses to tell something good about themselves and to congratulate their employees. It is the best opportunity of the year to thank the community for supporting the businesses and to announce major changes that have occurred or will occur.
- Shelf life. No other edition stays around as long as Hancock Today. People will hold on to it. Copies will be given to the chamber, tourist information center and welcome centers on I-10, so an ad will continue to work all year long.
- Hancock Today is seen as a success story for the community. The businesses included will be perceived as doing well.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. All right fishin' buddies, after weeks of frantic searching I have finally found where the fish are bitin'. That's right, good ole big-uns and big ole good-uns. More than you can possibly load into your box or eat in one sitting; unless, of course, you have an appetite like a turtle,

Turtle found the fish

then you might wanna' consider making two trips. Make that two sittings. Three or four might be okay, too.

The Turtle found the fish by launching in Bayou Caddy. After you launch your boat and before going out of the bayou, a quick stop is necessary. Stop by Terry's Seafood and pick up 30 to 40 pounds of fresh shrimp.

The reason for the quantity of fresh shrimp is simple. All fishin' buddies know why the shrimp are necessary. For those of you who don't know why you need so many pounds of fresh shrimp, you should consider why you hardly ever see a skinny fisherman. If the fishermen don't catch any fish they eat their bait.

Since the fishing has been fair to poor and otherwise partly cloudy and raining over the past few weeks, the average fisherman needs enough bait to feed his entire family.

Let's see, where was I? Oh yea, I was gonna' tell y'all how to find where the fish are biting once you launch out of Bayou Caddy. Okay, here it is: After you launch and pick up your bait you should proceed toward the mouth of the bayou. Be careful of the alligator at the mouth of the bayou.

You can tell if the alligator is active by the sounds of the rolling bones that come from his den. After you get past the alligator, keep going till you come to the first channel marker then set your compass on a NNW or 32 degree heading for about five miles till you come to this green and white structure. Go inside the structure and you will see shark, trout, drum, swordfish, catfish and even salmon. They only bite on "green bait," but there are a lot of fish in the fish at Sav-A-Center.

There are two major problems with getting fish at this location. The first one is, the fish at this location don't fight hard enough to pull out any drag. Second, Nicholson Avenue is real hard on outboard propellers.

Somebody must have lost a salt shaker overboard, because the Turtle noticed the salt content in the Sound has gone all the way up to ppt (it should be about 16 or more ppt), so he went to check out the Pearl River area. A quick boat ride from the launch at LaFrance brings you right into the mouth of the Pearl River. Once in the mouth of the river you can travel all the way up to the I-10 and you will notice the water level is not only dropping, but the water is clearing up real nice like. At the present level of clearing you should expect the water in the Sound to be almost normal in a few weeks.

While in the Ansley area, a few folks reported the water around Half Moon Island is starting to clear up. A couple of boats reported they caught a couple of trout by the island, but most of the action was inside the Louisiana Marsh.

This was not a weekend to get a reading on the fishing activity, because the tide was so high the water was over a lot of the marsh. This meant the few fish that were available were widely scattered and hard to find.

NOTE: The fishin' buddies should be aware there is a move afoot in the DMR to reduce the creel limit on speckled trout and to open the barrier islands that are not in the park system to year-round commercial fishing. This might be an issue of which the fishin' buddies might want to keep well informed.

This week's wonderful wise words: Watch your wake on Nicholson Avenue.

What test line do you need to catch frozen fish, Turtle?

Fishing rodeos set

Officials at the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks will celebrate National Fishing Week, which runs June 5-10 with four statewide fishing rodeos.

The first two will be held June 3 at Kemper Lake near DeKalb and Simpson Legion off Hwy. 49. The next will be June 10 at Paul B. Johnson in Hattiesburg, and the last one will be June 11 at Grenada Lake. Two more are set for September.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to teach youngsters the fundamentals of fishing, while letting them have an enjoyable day at the same time," said Ron Garavelli, MDWFP chief of fisheries. "Mississippi is a haven for sport fishing and this is an outlet to promote that resource to the next generation of anglers."

The rodeo will be separated into two classes, one for boys and one for girls and divided into three divisions according to ages. One group is for children 8 and younger, one for children 9-11 and the final for children 12-14.

Sponsored by the MDWFP, the Mississippi Sportfishing Foundation and Georgia Pacific, the event will offer several exhibits, a class on how to fish and the opportunity for youngsters to fish for prizes.

Soccer league to elect new officers

The Bay Area Youth Soccer League will hold elections for four offices at its July 9 meeting. Five positions will become open this year, including vice-president, registrar and three commissioners.

The nominations committee must submit the names of proposed nominees to the board at least three weeks prior to the elections meeting which would be June 18; therefore, all nominations must be turned in prior to that date.

Nominations may be made only by active members of the league who submit their petition to the nomination committee. Nominations must have the signature of at least five active members in addition to the signature of the proposed candidate for office. Nominations for office from the floor at the annual elections meeting shall not be accepted.

Any person interested in becoming a board member or nominating someone for an open position should contact Andy Kivlan at 466-2600. Questions concerning the nomination process can be answered at that time.

The rodeo will be separated into two classes, one for boys and one for girls and divided into three divisions according to ages. One group is for children 8 and younger, one for children 9-11 and the final for children 12-14.

Early registration is encouraged. On-site registration will be 8 a.m. at the USM Field House on the first day of each camp. For information call (601) 266-4186.

USM hosts tennis camps

Applications are now being accepted for the University of Southern Mississippi's two 1995 summer tennis camps July 24-28 and July 31-Aug. 4.

Both camps will offer individualized instruction to girls and boys, ages 8-17, from tennis fundamentals to more advanced techniques.

Primary instructors are Ted Viator, USM head tennis coach; Chris Hayden, USM assistant coach, and Samantha Cass, head tennis coach at Troy State University.

Fees are $160 for full-day campers and $80 for half-day campers. Both fees include limited accident insurance, awards and a T-shirt. Full-day campers also get lunch.

Early registration is encouraged. On-site registration will be 8 a.m. at the USM Field House on the first day of each camp. For information call (601) 266-4186.

Crankbaits often top lures when fishing current

Special to the Echo

When he's fishing moving water or current, bass tournament angler Larry Nixon often chooses a crankbait rather than his favorite plastic worm or spinnerbait.

"Current positions both the baitfish and the bass very specifically along the dropoffs and close to bottom cover like rocks and stumps," explains Nixon, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff.

"You need a lure that gets down to the proper depth but which still gives you directional control, and a crankbait does that better than most lures."

"At the same time, a crankbait also imitates a baitfish, so if you can bring the lure down behind a stump or rock, it often gets ambushed by a bass."

Nixon prefers to use large, deep diving crankbaits in current, even though he may not be fishing very deep. The lure's larger lip helps deflect it away from cover so it doesn't get snagged. He also prefers crank-baits with a lot of vibration.

"I am generally casting slightly across the current so the retrieve looks more natural," he explains, "and I retrieve fairly slowly because I want the lure to hit stumps and bounce off them."

"I like the deep diving crankbaits because they get down quickly and stay down even though I am using a slow retrieve. I'll vary my line size if I need to, using heavy line to keep the lure from simply grinding into the bottom."

He believes fishing crankbaits in current can be a productive pattern practically any month of the year. He has used it often in the summer, but says many of the pros overlook the pattern in favor of flopping jigs to shallow cover.

"Moving water provides some of your best fishing when conditions are unstable," says Nixon, "and in the summer when main lake temperatures are getting hot and oxygen levels are changing, current offers more stability."

"Moving water also tends to make all fish more active. Perhaps that's because food is constantly washing down with the current, or because there is more oxygen present. Current is definitely something to look for in warm weather."

One important thing to keep in mind whenever fishing current, adds Nixon, is to remember moving water tends to position bass in the calmer water behind any obstacles. This includes not only rocks and logs on the bottom, but also little cuts and points along the shoreline.

"I have seen tournaments won by anglers fishing the downstream side of points jutting out into current," he says. "Sometimes the bass just stack up in such places."

Courtesy awards

Winners of courtesy awards at St. Clare School for the third nine weeks are Andre Romain and Caitlin Lindstrom, kindergarten; Brian Fitch and Alyse Prieur, first grade; Keith Sims and Stephanie Colson, second grade; Chris France and Kelly Johnston, third grade; Peter Murphy and Laurie Ladner, fourth grade; Brian Webb and Rachelle Combs, fifth grade; and Chaz Piazza and Tonya Piernas, sixth grade.

PRCC's Career Center is state's first ACT Work Keys Service Center

Pearl River Community College's One Stop Career Center is the state's first ACT Work Keys Service Center for business and industry.

"We can confirm that Pearl River Community College is the first service center in Mississippi," said Sherry Child, program specialist with the American College Testing Work Keys System in Iowa City, Iowa.

"This will make service available to business, industry and schools that will enhance the workforce in PRCC's six-county district," said PRCC's Dr. Sharon Bellew. Bellew is administrator of the ACT Service Center at PRCC's Forrest County Center in Hattiesburg.

The Workforce Education Act of 1994 enabled all community and junior colleges in Mississippi to set up one stop career centers. PRCC has the only career center that can handle all points of the ACT Work Keys System, said Bellew.

ACT created the national Work Keys System to help education and business work

Certificates awarded

Certificates were awarded by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77 of Waveland to 134 Hancock County middle school students for their participation in an essay contest.

Subject was "Succeed, I Can, I Must Put Education First."

A United States Savings Bond for $100 was presented to Shannon Parker who won first place in the contest, a sixth grade student at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School.

Second place winner was Stephen Kulikowski, a fifth grade student at St. Clare School, who won a $75 savings bond.

Bay Middle sixth grade student Dana N. Farrell won a $50 savings bond for third place.

Millsaps dean's list scholars

Millsaps College students named to the dean's list for the 1995 spring semester include Samuel Trent Favre of Bay St. Louis, Simon Wayne of Bay St. Louis, and Susan Michelle Dean of Wiggins.
